IE Discovery's Corporate Discovery Counsel Co-Authors Article on Document Reviews for ACC Docket

"You May Find Yourself in a Large Document Review" appears in May 2009 issue, examines better ways to address litigation and document review

Austin, Texas (May 19, 2009)— Cathy Clark, Corporate Discovery Counsel for IE Discovery, a leading provider of comprehensive Discovery Management solutions to the legal community, has contributed her expertise to an article in the May 2009 issue of ACC Docket, titled "You May Find Yourself in a Large Document Review." The article, co-authored by Ms. Clark and Frank Vacella, Associate General Counsel-Litigation at Ericsson Inc. and Tom Fasone, III, Senior Counsel with McKool Smith in Dallas, examines all phases of electronic discovery and document review and promotes best practices for technology-assisted, or "blended" review.

"As companies retain more and more data overall, it is not uncommon for an initial collection of potentially relevant documents to contain hundreds of gigabytes of documents," said Ms. Clark. "At the same time, globalization, short timeframes, simultaneous matters, limited budgets and a confusing landscape of solutions also provide further challenges." IE Discovery has assisted many clients, including Ericsson and McKool Smith in efficiently and cost-effectively reducing their document populations and managing the review process.

"You May Find Yourself in a Large Document Review," explores the causes of the document review problem, the traditional approach, some innovative approaches and a case study outlining the practicalities and cost model of an effective blended document review. As is typical in ACC Docket, alongside the article are five "Expert Tips" and numerous charts and graphs to help the reader understand the issue at hand.

"Cathy provides our clients with a great understanding of discovery and document review and I'm sure ACC Docket readers will also gain from her insights," said Chris May, CEO of IE Discovery. "I'd also like to thank Tom and Frank for their outstanding work on this article."
