IE Discovery Announces New Release of InfoDox™ Discovery Management Solution

Major update includes many significant enhancements, including Universal File Viewer, enhanced search capabilities and tools for faster document review

Austin, Texas (August 28, 2006)—IE Discovery, a leading provider of comprehensive Discovery Management solutions to the legal community, announced today that it has released a new version of its InfoDox™ discovery management tool. The new release provides significant improvements in functionality, including the following:

- Universal File Viewer. A new tool for viewing more than 290 native file types without requiring the original application. The viewer provides users with more flexibility, a shorter review cycle and cost savings by only converting files that must be produced.
- Ability to Store Work Product Separate from Evidentiary Documents. Users can save work product—motions, briefs and pleadings—in the repository but separate from discovery documents. This facilitates easy access to key documents without risking production of work product.
- Search Enhancements. Numerous enhancements facilitate faster searching, shortening review cycles and ultimately saving costs.
- Simultaneous Marking of Related Documents. Document families can now be marked all at once, saving time and clicks.

IE Discovery's goal in releasing the latest version of InfoDox remains consistent with its previous releases: gather input from its user base to continually refine and improve the InfoDox platform. "We interact with our customers on a daily basis and update InfoDox based on their feedback. This is the key to providing the most comprehensive Discovery Management software in the marketplace," said Chris May, CEO of IE Discovery.

IE Discovery was recently named a Top 10 provider in each phase of the 4th Annual Socha-Gelbmann E-Discovery Survey, including the review phase which benefits most from these new enhancements. "This release is specifically designed to help our clients with the review process, which is often the most expensive part of discovery," said Bill Detamore, Director of Business Development at IE Discovery. "It is always our objective to take as much pain as possible out of discovery management."
